About Craig Ferguson

Craig Ferguson is a multiple Grammy nominated, Peabody and Emmy Award-winning actor, writer, producer, director and comedian with a diverse career that encompasses film, television and the stage. He is a New York Times bestselling author and has recorded numerous standup specials for Netflix, Epix, Comedy Central and Amazon

The wildly popular Late Late Show with Craig Ferguson ran on CBS for ten years and remains a cult favorite on YouTube racking up millions of views every year on fan posted bootleg clips.

In 2016, Ferguson debuted his original History Channel show, Join or Die, which featured him and his celebrity friends debating provocative topics with history experts. He also hosted Celebrity Name Game in syndication where he won the Emmy for best host two years in a row and The Hustler for ABC/Disney.

Ferguson has achieved notable success on the North American comedy circuit and has performed to sold-out theaters all across the country, including Carnegie Hall and Radio City Music Hall. He has five widely acclaimed stand-up comedy specials: "A Wee Bit O' Revolution" which premiere in 2009 on Comedy Central; "Does This Need to Be Said" in 2011 on EPIX and Comedy Central; "I'm Here to Help" in 2013 on Netflix, which earned him a Grammy nomination for Best Comedy Album; "Just Being Honest" in 2015 on EPIX, which earned him a second Grammy nomination for Best Comedy Album; and "Tickle Fight" in 2017 on Netflix and the six part stand up/docu-series "Hobo Fabulous" on Amazon in 2020.

In 2006, Ferguson debuted his first novel entitled Between the Bridge and the River, which made it onto the bestseller list. His most recent book Riding the Elephant- a series of linked biographical stories- is available from Penguin books.
